

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Santhiya gets certified for First Aid Training Seminar conducted by Bangkok Hospital, Samui

18 October, 2008 - The purpose of this one day First Aid Training Seminar held at the resort facilitated by Nurse Representatives from Bangkok Hospital in Samui is to provide Santhiya Team Members with training in basic life support and in the first aid management of the more common and more serious - injuries or illnesses that may be encountered within the general community, the workplace and most commonly to assist guests when accidents occur at the resort during recreation.

Santhiya Team members partnered with Bangkok Hospital Samui Branch for the training in first aid procedures that will help enable Santhiya Team Members to assist an injured or ill person giving temporary aid until proper medical attention is accessed. The Topics included: Management of the Unresponsive Victim, Resuscitation, Bleeding, Respiratory Emergencies, Cardiac Emergencies, Fractures, Soft Tissue Injuries, Head Injuries, Envenomation, Poisoning and Thermal Injuries.

Santhiya Team generally participated in both theory and practical sessions, which was followed by a skills assessment and multiple-choice theory knowledge test.

For Santhiya Team Members and Bangkok Hospital, Samui the First Aid Training Seminar was a fun filled day of practicing first aid and leadership skills in an outdoor setting.

The scenarios provided by the Bangkok Hospital Team conducted by Khun Jaratsri Sangtong, Nurse Supervisor of Emergency Department and assisted by Khun Itipong Sopol, Nurse who are both representatives from Bangkok Hospital in Samui branch.

After the competent completion of all of the required skills Bangkok Hospital, Samui now declares Santhiya Resort & Spa Team Members Certified in Handling First Aid in the future in case of any emergencies at the resort.

Congratulations to the newly opened!
